

Susanne Ulk

Educated teacher and Master of Public Administration.

Has worked for the Danish Ministry for Education as a consultant for guidance of young people in transition between school life and work life.

Has worked as a consultant with a wide range of projects aimed to strengthen health and safety training and integrate it into education in primary and secondary schools under the auspices of the Danish Working Environment Council and the eleven Danish Branch Environment Councils.

Has developed the Ar & Mi concept (Teaching OSH for the youngest children in primary school) and the Ny i Job (to be young and new on the workplace - teaching OSH for elder pupils) concept.

Editor of the web-page www.ungmedjob.dk (about young people and OSH - for teachers, young people, their parents and their employers)

Now working as a private consultant with OSH projects for the Branch Working Environment Councils (currently projects for the Social and Health Care Sector and for the Service Sector). Also holding customised courses on safety and health training for teachers and councillors.

Has been a member of ENETOSH since the start. Member of the editorial committee and the steering committee